

Cross Kirkland Corridor Art Integration Plan

Art on the Cross Kirkland Corridor

Building off the CKC Master Plan (completed in 2013), the Cultural Arts Commission has lead efforts to imagine how art in a variety of forms including performance, interactive, ephemeral and permanent, can be incorporated into the Corridor experience with the creation of the Cross Kirkland Corridor Art Integration Plan.

“The 2014 Cross Kirkland Corridor Master Plan guides decision makers, designers and private developers with a vision to move the CKC forward to funding and realization. Art was addressed in the master plan as a priority to shape the corridor experience and as a catalyst to move it forward to engage and shape the community. While the master plan identified the opportunity for art and provided high-level guidance, it did not include a full art plan for the CKC. With the success of the master plan, the interim trail construction, and new emerging projects along the corridor, now is the time to proactively invest in art opportunities on the CKC. The role of this Art Integration Plan is twofold: to inspire the opportunities for art on the CKC (and beyond) and to provide guidance to the City on how to facilitate and manage art on the corridor.”

(Excerpt from the CKC Art Integration Plan, Page 6)

Share your ideas about art on the CKC by emailing arts@kirklandwa.gov. Stay updated on public participation opportunities by visiting the Cultural Arts Commission page or signing up for the Kirkland Arts E-bulletin.

The Kirkland Cultural Arts Commission is a volunteer board that works to help arts, culture and heritage grow and thrive in the City of Kirkland. Along with supporting art and cultural initiatives throughout the year the Kirkland Cultural Arts Commission advises the City Council on art acquisition and promotes strategic arts planning in Kirkland.