DEADLINE: November 13, 2017 – 5:00 p.m. PDT

DESCRIPTION

The City of Kirkland seeks an artist, artist team or artist/environmental scientist team to develop artwork for the new Totem Lake Park, located east of I-405 in the Totem Lake Urban Center, adjacent to the new Totem Lake Village shopping center. The artist or team will work closely with the Seattle landscape architecture firm designing the park, the Berger Partnership.

This 1% for Art project, (art being a component of city-funded capital improvement projects) affords an opportunity to develop artwork that interprets the environmental aspects of the park by including an environmental scientist as a consultant or as a member of the artist team.

Further, there is an opportunity to significantly impact the experiences that residents and employees of Totem Lake will have in this natural area, the singular green space in what is otherwise an auto-oriented, densely populated part of Kirkland.

The goal for this environmentally-sensitive artwork is to develop concepts that are integrated into and genuinely connected with the park that respond to these factors, among others:

- Intentionally deepen, broaden and/or illuminate one's experiences while using this singular natural zone sitting within a highly developed area of exurban Kirkland
- Enhance the park's capacity to provide "meaningful respite" from urban life
- Connect people to natural rhythms and potentially seasons
- Consider the senses and offer varying sensory experiences for users
- Work with the overall design and the design team to create a blend of design and art that will draw people into experiencing the whole park

BACKGROUND

Totem Lake Park is an underutilized asset at the heart of the Totem Lake neighborhood. The decision to go forward with a new, complete park design process gives a unique opportunity to explore the best way to allow the lake to become a compelling experience in the heart of the surrounding community. Further, the decision to include an artist in the project to develop artwork that will work in tandem with the design further contributing to the potential experiences is very exciting.

The history of land uses around the lake before its present day uses, both residential and retail, focused on a railroad and on agriculture. Hay fields, assorted crops and orchards were prevalent around the site. There is little recorded information of Native American use in the area. Lake Wittenmyer was the first recorded name for the lake, named after Walt Wittenmyer, a former logger and city clerk for the City of Kirkland. In 1964 the name changed to Lake Watsine for unknown reasons. Most people referred to the lake as Mud Lake until Totem Lake Mall opened in 1973 and the name officially changed to Totem Lake to match the Native American theme of the adjacent mall.

Heavily impacted by farming and development over time, the lake successfully reestablished itself with native vegetation. A few invasive species are established in the area, but they are not prevalent throughout the site. Ninety species of birds, long eared owl, deer, beaver, muskrat, raccoons, coyotes, turtles, bullfrogs and fish have all been seen or reported on site.

The lake is dynamic for a variety of reasons. Urban runoff caused several issues with sedimentation and water quality. While flooding is an issue due to clogged outfall pipes and the downstream effects of beaver activity in the Juanita Creek drainage basin.

Aerial photographs from 1936 reveal the open water portion of the lake was much larger than its present day condition. It is unconfirmed whether peat mining at the lake changed the lake's shoreline. It is also possible the drainage pattern changed and the water level lowered when I-405 or the adjacent mall were developed. Longtime local residents recall a "floating island" of vegetation that moved around the lake. This island has not been seen for several years.

The interaction of humans and this natural site continues to evolve.

A NEW NEIGHBORHOOD FOR A NEW PARK

Currently Totem Lake is essentially invisible from surrounding properties or roads. The design for the park will allow more boardwalk to access the site, as well as making it possible to connect to the trail and between neighborhoods. Access will also be enhanced greatly with a new, iconic pedestrian/bike bridge that connects two parts of the popular Cross Kirkland Corridor trail that will run along the south edge. This allows the natural area in the midst of highly developed land to become a key part of a neighborhood lacking any parkland amenities. The adjacent Totem Lake Village is being redeveloped into a large, mixed-use neighborhood with retail that will become home to many once finished.

ECOLOGY OF TOTEM LAKE

Urban runoff and flooding has increased sediment transport to Totem Lake. This has accelerated filling of the lake over the years and the natural succession from lake to wetland. Approximately 50% of the lake area has decreased in the last 70-80 years. The lake area will continue to decrease in time due to sedimentation and organic high matter production. Therefore accretion will be relatively rapid. Any design for the Park must recognize that the lake will fill in overtime and one day may be a wetland with no open water.

The Park master plan recognizes this evolution, and looks to augment the natural systems of the site by enhancing the diversity of vegetation and natural elements that support wildlife function. This will ensure the site continues to provide a benefit to surrounding properties as a respite from urban living, and a place for nature to co-exist with the built environment. The health of Totem Lake will also need to rely on stewardship from surrounding parcels to mitigate their runoff to improve water.

The health of the lake and its adjacent wetland is good. Although low in biodiversity, the site provides habitat for several species of birds, beaver, turtles and fish, to name a few. There are good conditions for wildlife viewing.

NEW PARK COMPONENTS MAKE UP THE NEW WHOLE

Berger Partnership undertook the master planning process. The City of Kirkland has hired them to continue on with developing the final design for the park. Beyond its familiarity with the site, Berger has extensive experience working with artists on its projects, making this a good opportunity to implement some exciting integrated artwork components.

The new park design is currently reaching 30% design and highlights from the park master plan are being revised and further developed in response to final information about soil conditions, revealing large areas of peat conditions. These conditions, rather than being a problem, are adding an interesting, challenging environmental layer to the park design process. The peat condition in fact will allow the final park design opportunities to showcase the every-changing nature of natural sites.

- The north edge will have a large gathering area and be the only area in the park to rest and play on the edge of the lake.
- The east edge will feature a boardwalk through the marshy area that connects the existing north edge pathway to a new southeast connection point connected to the Cross Kirkland Corridor Trail (CKC).
- The south edge will see the CKC continue to a new pedestrian/bike bridge that will span major arterials and the intersection of NE 124th Street and 124th Ave NE to the existing CKC that currently continues south.
- The west edge has a boardwalk that finishes the lake loop and connects the pedestrian bridge, the CKC and the park gathering area.

PROCESS

One percent (1%) for Art is assessed on capital improvement projects (CIP) that are undertaken by the City of Kirkland. The Kirkland Cultural Arts Commission (KCAC) together with City departments (in this case the Park Board) manages the design and development of art that is integrated into City projects and approved by City Council.

It is recommended that there may be opportunities for an artist, if interested, to propose aspects of their work that could be integrated into the infrastructure of the park along with aspects that are unique. The opportunity to integrate into the fiber of the design and thus overlap with some amount of the construction budget is always beneficial to a limited art budget.

SUBMITTAL MATERIAL
