Angela:

If there is still time for any comment to the Planning Commission or Council on the MRM amendment, my input would be this:

My biggest concern is about aesthetics, particularly the step-down in building heights from ParkPlace to Kirkland Way. Just make sure it's in keeping with the neighborhood, because it's all residential in the immediately adjoining areas to the south. Whether the use is office, retail or residential makes little difference to me, so long as the area remains relatively open to the public, as with the mall concept to the north in Parkplace.
