Living Longer; Living Smarter
Helping people live independently is central to AARP’s social mission. The Living Longer, Living Smarter workshops help participants to actively prepare for their futures and the need for long-term care. Participants will explore the wide range of personal choices they have in their finances, health, home & community, and legal considerations:

• Your Health – You need to stay healthy to live your best life both now and in the future. Learn how your ability to live well is impacted by family health history, lifestyle modifications and types of health insurance.

• Home and Community – Assess whether your home and community can support your changing needs. Will your home help or hinder your quality of life as you age? Does your community offer sufficient access via public transit or automobile to help residents connect with social activities, jobs, health care, and other important services?

• Your Finances – Learn about retirement income and the cost of long-term care. Will you have enough assets to cover our increasing lifespans? Remember, Medicare usually only pays for medical care, not for long term care services and supports around the home.

• Your Wishes – Consider how you want your medical care and finances handled if you’re unable to make decisions. What have you already put into writing and what needs to be decided or updated? Length of Workshop: Series of four workshops at 30 minutes each or a combined two hour workshop.
