

Hazardous Waste

Free hazardous waste disposal

If the label includes words such as danger, poison, caution, or toxic, it's likely hazardous waste and needs special disposal at drop-off locations.

Your business may be eligible for no-fee hazardous waste disposal up to four times a year. To qualify, your business must be a Small Quantity Generator, meaning you produce and store only a small quantity of hazardous material. Call (206) 296-4692 or visit kingcountyhazwastewa.gov.

Small Quantity Generators may also drop off oil-based paint through the new statewide PaintCare recycling program. Visit paintcare.org/WA for details.

Office

Computers, monitors, TVs + tablets

Recycle computers, tablets, e-readers, monitors, TVs and laptops for free through E-Cycle Washington (ecyclewa.org).

Fluorescent bulbs/tubes + HIDs

Recycle up to ten mercury-containing bulbs and tubes daily for free through LightRecycle (lightrecycle.org). LEDs and incandescents can go in the garbage.

NEW!

Options for paint recycling

Latex and oil-based paint can now be recycled through a new statewide program. Visit paintcare.org/WA for details and limits, and to find locations near you.

State plastic bag policy starts Oct. 1

Starting Oct. 1, retail businesses (including restaurants) should follow Washington State's plastic bag policy, not the City of Kirkland's. Visit ecology.wa.gov/bag-ban to see the policy.

Save for reference! Hangable poster inside.
